Dear Dr. Foiklang:

Due to your expertise, I invite you to review manuscript ID VMS3-2025-Mar-0389.R1 entitled "Natural mineral water (hora) supplementation improves growth performance, nutrient utilization, and carcass characteristics of sheep in Ethiopia." which has been submitted to Veterinary Medicine and Science. The abstract appears at the end of this message. Please let me know by 31-Aug-2025 if you will provide a review of the content. You will have additional time to submit your recommendation. If you are unable to review the abstract, who do you recommend as an expert on the topic?

Veterinary Medicine and Science is an open-access journal published by Wiley. Our aim is to provide authors with rapid decisions and publish scientifically sound research in all aspects of veterinary medicine and science. Although we avoid publishing flawed research, we are not against publishing papers that do not receive universal support for their ideas. We aim to publish papers that advance scientific knowledge rather than focusing on the perceived novelty or impact of the research.

Please note this is an invited resubmission of a paper, revised to take into account comments from the previous reviewers. Please review the whole paper with special consideration of whether the original reviewers' comments have been addressed. The author's responses to these comments will be found in the pdf of the resubmitted paper. The abstract appears at the end of this letter.

Please register your response to this invitation using one of the links below, which will automatically register your reply with our online manuscript submission and review system:
